Description
We train because we are human and we become human because we train. This is the surprising and original conclusion of Anatomy of Performance Training, in which John Matthews shows how training is a very human response to the problems of having a body and living in the world. Using illustrative case-studies of professional practice, each chapter addresses a specific body part, offering a self-contained discussion of its symbolic and practical significance in the artistic, and commercial, activities of training. These anatomical case-studies are cross-referenced with other disciplines (such as sport, high diving, deep diving and artisan craft) to further expand our understanding of performance. Stand-alone chapters, ideal for reference, build towards an overall conclusion that the uniquely human practice of training is emerging as a new and pervasive ideology globally. Ideal for readers seeking to understand the relationship the body has with the theatre and training, or for teachers looking for a new, innovative approach to performance, Anatomy of Performance Training is an accessible, original contribution to the philosophy of training for performance.

Update

Kortext's Annual Librarian Survey '22 revealed that a quick and simple acquisition process is an important factor to consider when choosing an eTextbook supplier.

Improved inventory search

Search Kortext without leaving the portal

There are over 2 million eTextbooks available on the Kortext Arcturus platform. With our 'Search Kortext' functionality, you can explore the Kortext inventory and add titles to any of your baskets, providing a convenient user experience.

Enhanced search functionality

Enjoy a more seamless search experience with our new tab-specific search bar tailored to the section of the portal you're in. This replaces our global search bar, ensuring the system filters accurate and relevant results every time.

Enhanced and familiar user interface

The new app-style layout provides a user experience like the modern, easy-to-navigate apps we use every day.

And in an enhancement specially requested by librarians, title information is now displayed in grid view with columns and rows, so you can easily compare titles.

Review book details in seconds

Want to know more about a book? Simply click into the title for a one-page overview of everything you need, from author information, rental term and ISBN to eBook format, edition and publisher information – and all this alongside book description and pricing.

You can now search outside Kortext, so if a title isn't available in the Kortext inventory, the Acquisition Portal will automatically search external records, including BDS, to show you that the book exists. You can then either make a request for Kortext to source the title on your behalf or select from a list of alternative titles chosen by other librarians.

The top screenshot shows the Kortext Acquisition Portal with a search for "ajsahdajk". The search results are empty, and a message states: "We couldn't find any matches for 'ajsahdajk'. Check the spelling of your search term for any typos or use broader terms or fewer keywords".

The bottom screenshot shows the Kortext Acquisition Portal with a search for ISBN "0671432176453". The search results are empty, and a message states: "Your specific search not found. Other librarians have selected these related titles instead".
